

A Look Inside My Day at the Aquarium

WRITTEN BY VICKIE HAMPTON
ILLUSTRATED BY MICHELLE GLENNON

This picture book™ book belongs to _____

My visit to the aquarium was on _____

I went to the aquarium with _____

My favorite fish was _____

The funniest fish was _____

A whole new world bubbles under the sea.
But it's not so different from the world we see.
Come visit the aquarium with me in my book.
You'll see what I mean when we take a closer look.

An octopus have lots of arms—I counted them—eight!
I wish I had that many, that would be great.
I could do so many things all at one time.
Play, read, eat... Hey, maybe I should have nine!

Penguins waddle and waddle on the frigid ice.
They're black and white, and seem so nice.
Their home is so cold, most men dare not go.
But they look just like my dad in a tuxedo!

Stars cover the night sky like twinkling gems.
And starfish cover the ocean floor, so many of them.
You could count forever, from 1 to 111.
Because they are everywhere, from the ocean up to heaven!

Jellyfish don't look like fish, not a fin or a scale.
They look like the billowy part of a boat—big sail.
They suck in their bodies, then very slowly,
Puff them out and look like a hot air balloon.

Whales are gentle giants and an awe to see.
Sea lions play at the coastline, both land and sea.
I was like a scuba diver in an endless blue sea with 100,000 fishes swimming all around me.

I love horses, white, brown or black.
I love to ride upon their backs.
The ocean has Seahorses, but they're so small.
They don't race, or prance, or gallop at all.

Some rivers have piranha fish, which are not easy to see.
In dark waters they sneak up on you before you can flee.
They'll chase you like a swarm of wasps or bees.
Just take a good look at their razor sharp teeth.

Stingrays move in the water with ease,
Like soaring birds of the deep, blue seas.
If I try to pet a bird, it flees to the sky,
But I can touch the stingray as it glides by.

My day at the aquarium I'll never forget.
I borrowed the ocean, but didn't get wet.
I saw a whole new world under the sea.
Near time come explore under the water with me.

More pictures from my day at the aquarium!